CHRISTIANS BLOCK EDUCATIONAL WORK

JAPANESE EXCLUSION ACT A BLOW TO MISSIONARIES

Federal Prohibition Commissioner Porterfield Declared That the Great Danger To Prohibition Is Not With the Little Insignificant Fellow Who Brews Small Quantities, But With the Rich Man Who Pays the High Prices To Get Liquor In Defiance of Law.

Inconsistency on the part of Christians of the United States was branded as the greatest obstacle confronting Christian leaders in the work of world wide education by Robert Doan, who addressed the 37th annual convention of the Franklin County Women's Christian Temperance Union in Indianola Presbyterian church Thursday night.

"If our hopes of a temperate world are realized the love of Christ must be lived in our own land," he declared. Mr. Doan told of his observations in Japan, China, Europe and South America. He stated that American missionaries typify the Christian life, but the other Americans there offset the good example by their many un-Christian acts.

He cited the Japanese exclusion act as a serious blow to the principles of Christ as expounded by the missionaries and declared that a treaty could have been made which would have been as effective as the law and would not have hindered the work there.

E. L. Porterfield, federal prohibition commissioner, declared at Thursday night's banquet that the great danger to prohibition is not with the little insignificant fellow who brews small quantities, but with the rich man who pays his big prices to get liquor in defiance of the law.

Rev. E. S. Matheny stated that the whole world is watching the United States, and that our influence is world wide.

Congressman John C. Speaks told the gathering that the next congress is safely dry.

Mrs. John Wright emphasized the need for constant work in keeping repaired the road that ultimately will lead to world-wide prohibition.

In the opening address Thursday morning, Mrs. Summer Cottingham, president, urged that a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union be in court every time a bootleg case is heard. She declared the bootleg forces have their representatives there, and that those interested in law enforcement should be there likewise.

The Grove City branch of the young people's organization had the largest delegation in attendance Thursday night.

Mrs. Cottingham was reelected Friday to a fourth term as president of the county organization, which has 1900 members. Mrs. E. R. Lunn also will be reelected treasurer.

Achievements of the year will be told by workers at the morning's session which begins at 9 o'clock. This will be followed by election of officers for the coming year.

Americanization will come up for discussion Friday afternoon following the devotional session at 1:30 o'clock to be led by Mrs. F. G. Johnson. Miss Theresa Lentz will make an address.

Course of Schuylkill River Shifted Half a Mile

The setting off of 1,700 pounds of dynamite completed the great engineering project of moving the Schuylkill river a distance of a half a mile at Port Clinton, Pa. The new road for which the course of the river was shifted represents an expenditure of $500,000 and eliminates a "U" curve and two obsolete bridges. Photo shows the new channel of the river at the left and the old one at the right.

Ohio Supreme Court to Say if Play Houses May be Open on Sunday.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 8, (UP) A motion to dismiss a petition in error in the case of Earl Myers against the State of Ohio was heard before the supreme court.

Myers, manager of the Majestic theater had been convicted of violating the state law against operating a theater on Sunday. He appealed the case and the court of appeals upheld the decision of the lower court.

Walter W. Boulger, Myers' attorney, claimed that the decision of the court of appeals did not include all the evidence submitted.

John P. Phillips, attorney for the State said the law specifically specified the closing of theaters on Sunday claimed to show where the decision of the lower courts had included all the evidence submitted and cited the statutes that apply to the case.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 8, (UP)—Two rum runners captured in their speed boat which contained $20,000 worth of liquor on Lake Erie, off Huron, Ohio, shortly before dawn, were brought to Cleveland for arraignment before federal officials today. The men, Orville McCormick, Pelee Island, Ontario, and Dewey Wadsworth, Port Clinton, Ohio, gave battle with revolvers until they were seized.

UNIVERSITY MAKES STUDY OF MONKEYS

Scientists to Figure Just How Much These Animals Resemble Humans.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 8, (UP) Just how close a monkey really does resemble a man, is going to be determined by Johns Hopkins university scientists, assisted by the Carnegie institute.

Twenty monkeys, direct from the Himalaya mountains of Asia, will arrive here and will be placed in a miniature jungle at the university.

There Dr. Carl G. Hartman, formerly of the University of Texas, and Dr. George L. Streeter will become guardians of the animals and minister to their wants, keeping them under conditions as nearly resembling the jungle as college life will permit.

The monkeys will constitute several families—with papa and mamma monkey and all the little monkeys.

Each birth in the colony will be recorded, each baby will have its "baby book," just like human children, in which will be recorded such bits of information, as when baby first walks, how it develops and how the mother acts with regard to it.

There will be records also of the deaths in the colony, the actions of the monkeys when one of their number is taken and examination will be made to determine causes of death to see if there is any resemblance between the maladies of animals and those of human beings.

From this data, which will be gathered over a period of years, scientists will draw new conclusions as to just where the monkey sits in the human family tree—if at all.

CITIES STILL GAIN

Survey Shows Marked Decrease In the Farm Population.

Based on a survey of 25,000 representative farms, the Department of Agriculture estimates that the farm population decreased approximately 182,000 in 1924. If this impresses that the cities are still potent to draw tillers of the soil from the occupation been engaged, there is another phase in that the loss to the farms is appreciably less than in 1922, when the cities made a net gain of 460,000 at the expense of agriculture. While there is and for long has been a movement from the country to urban surroundings it is not the only direction in which there is migration. According to the estimate, 2,075,000 moved from farms to cities, towns and villages last year while 1,396,000 took the opposite course. From this it may be assumed reasonably that many who had had experience with urban life sought a change, either because they had found residence in congested communities undesirable, or it was hoped to better conditions by going to the farms.

Considering the state of agriculture it is rather remarkable that the preponderance in favor of the city is so slight. Depression in any line of industry tends to drive workers to other lines which seem to offer greater promise. The drawbacks incident to a change may not be as obvious as what appear to be advantages. That so many took part in the return movement may indicate that no small number who had previously moved cityward found the net benefits less than hoped for. While the possible income in the city may have seemed alluring, the expenses have been found to be in no less proportion. Hence the retrograde movement in such volume. —Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Skeletons Go Back to Prehistoric Age

Two prehistoric skeletons, more than 80 feet in length, recently were uncovered near Hoquiam, Wash., by workmen in a railroad cut, according to an Associated Press dispatch from that place. Rev. J. Herbert Geoghegan, who examined the find, pronounced the bones those of ichthyosaurs.

The skeletons were imbedded in from 40 to 60 feet of limestone deposit and were partly petrified. The railroad excavation cut through the animals' ribs, which could be seen extending for a distance of several feet in parallel lines.

No skull was found, but a long tearing tooth discovered among the debris was taken as indicating that the animals were carnivorous. The ribs vary from three to twelve inches in thickness, while a portion of shoulder blade is four feet long and five inches thick. Knee joints and other bones discovered vary in size from several feet to only a few inches in circumference.

"The character of the rock indicates that it was once sea or river bottom, which through a fault has been overturned," said Rev. Mr. Geoghegan. "The layers of strata have been upended, leaving the animals lying in an unnatural position."

"The upheaval which placed the bones on the top of a hill probably took place at the time the Cascade range was formed."

"The animal was a vertebrate and probably stood 40 feet high, counting the long expanse of neck found. The classification of the bones could be determined more exactly if we could locate the skull of one of the beasts."

"This entire country appears to have been tropical or subtropical in character and the absence of rocks and gravel proves that the glacier which covered the northern part of the continent at one time never touched this section."

"From the character of the soil, either river or ocean bottom, I am inclined to believe the animals were ichthyosaurs, or maritime reptiles, rather than the dinosaur, land reptile or pterodactyl, flying reptile."

They Never Grow Up

"In spite of the fact that we place note pads on the wall at the side of every room telephone, nearly all our guests insist on writing their memoranda of telephone numbers on the wall," declared the manager of a downtown bachelor hotel. "It's never a malicious idea with them. It's just an outcropping of the strongest urge of childhood—to scribble on a clean space of wall. Somehow, men don't seem to be able to forget this fascination."

British officials in Palestine express apprehensions lest the Holy sepulchre, shown above, cave in from the gradual weakening of the walls due to age and to the innumerable offerings of pilgrims. The church is legally possessed by the local authorities of almost all of the branches of the Christian church—Abyssinians, Armenians, Copts, Greeks, Latins, etc. This multiple control makes it extremely difficult for the British authorities to persuade the owners to undertake and carry through any effective repair.

CONCERT WAS
DELIGHTFULE. Sensenbrenner Secured
Glen Ellison and Alta Hill
for Musical.

The tonal concert at Memorial hall, Wednesday evening, October 7, was a real treat, and as the vast audience left the hall, on all sides could be heard praises of the New Edison and a deep appreciation of the artists, Mr. Glen Ellison, Scotch baritone, and Miss Alta Hill, pianist.

For this wonderful treat was made possible thru the efforts of E. Sensenbrenner, proprietor of Sensenbrenner's "Watch Shop and Edison Music Rooms." From the first number to the last, the audience was held under the magic spell of the natural voice blending with the re-incarnated, and Mr. Sensenbrenner is to be congratulated on securing for the music lovers of Circleville so rare a treat.

The effect of two voices of the same exquisite quality, was indeed a new sensation. Mr. Ellison sang "Roamin' in the Gloamin'" with such beauty and expression that one could almost be persuaded that it was Harry himself. Tests were made by the artist, and it is no more than just to state that there was not the slightest difference between the re-created voice and the original. The same could be said of Miss Hill. It was only by watching the piano keys that one could be sure when she played and when she did not.

The New Edison stands on its own merits. This was demonstrated beyond question at this recital. Voice and instrument blended so harmoniously that one could not distinguish whether there was "one of me or two of me," as Mr. Ellison expressed it. Both Mr. Ellison and Miss Hill were generous in responding to encores; but at that, the concert was all too short. Effective decorations of dahlias and fern added to the attractiveness of the occasion.

The program was:

(b) "Roamin' In The Gloamin'" —Lauder

Dog Spells Own Name

While dogs have a general reputation for intelligence, there are few whose education is as far advanced as that of Chum, a terrier owned by Mrs. Young, of the Studio, Cuckfield, Sussex, England, who spells his own name, placing the letters which compose it in their order without ever making a mistake.

He fetches his mistress' shoes and gloves when she begins to take off her slippers, and then puts the slippers away, and brings to those requiring them cigarettes, matches, crumb-brush and tray, books, sticks and letters.

"He learns a lot simply from his own observation, as we have not time to teach him properly," said his owner to a Daily Mail reporter.

Hatched by Hot Water

Eleven pheasant chicks belonging to Clarence P. Billings of North Adams acknowledge a hot-water bottle as their mother. Set under a hen who abandoned them after sitting only a part of the incubation period, they were removed by Mr. Billings. With the aid of a covering cloth and constant attention, the hot-water bottle finished the job and hatched 11 chicks out of a setting of 15 eggs.—Boston Globe.

CONSTITUTION
DISCUSSIONHon. D. Price Evans, of Jackson, Made Enlightening
Talk at Rotary.

Speaking Thursday noon before the Rotary club at The Boggs, Honorable D. Price Evans, of Jackson, discussed the proposed Constitutional Tax and Debt Limitation amendments which are to be voted upon this fall.

According to the speaker, the Constitutional Tax amendment is simply a measure that will make the present Uniform Rule elastic enough to cover intangibles which are now escaping taxation. The Debt Limitation amendment simply writes into the constitution the pay-as-you-go plan which is already in the Ohio statutes.

Mr. Evans pointed out that the present Uniform Rule under which the Ohioans are taxed was written into the constitution in 1851 when Ohio was purely an agricultural state. He said the total tax duplicate at that time was only $462,148,620, but that the total taxable wealth of the state now is $12,250,387,725. "A rule of taxation" said the speaker, "suitable for 1851 is not suited for 1925 for since 1851 Ohio has changed from an agricultural state to a beehive of industry, mining and commerce, and has created intangible wealth whose value is greater than that of the tangible wealth."

Mr. Evans explained that the proposed Constitutional Tax amendment would not weaken the Uniform Rule but strengthen it—in that it made it elastic enough to cover intangible wealth thereby decreasing the burden upon homes, farms and other tangible property.

In substantiation of the contention that intangibles are now escaping taxation the speaker said that in Ohio in 1924 we had 1,060,157 personal property tax returns and the total personal property returned for taxation was only $183,234,361, while the financial institutions of Ohio had $3,514,334,133.

The speaker pointed out that in Cuyahoga county last year 49,211 persons made personal property tax returns, listing only $9,877,420 in monies while the financial institutions in Cuyahoga county had $1,081,610,684.

In Hamilton county, with the second largest city in Ohio 57,491 personal tax returns were made for a grand total of both tangible and intangible personal property of $66,969,900 while financial institutions in Hamilton county had $357,144,555.

To show that the same condition exists in the rural counties the speaker declared that in Defiance county 5,051 personal tax returns were made last year, listing monies to the extent of $1,032,480, while financial institutions had $11,427,510.

Bringing the tax lesson closer home Mr. Evans said: "The value of all monies in possession or subject of draft returned for taxation last year by 5,292 personal property tax returns in Pickaway county, amounted to $1,491,625, while the money in all of the financial institutions in Pickaway county totaled $5,658,888. In this county motor and other vehicles in the amount of $949,090 were returned for taxation and the total value of all credits after deducting the bona fide debts amounted to $2,374,185 and the grand total for taxation for all personal property, both tangible and intangible was $9,518,260 but the financial institutions of this county had $5,658,888.

The speaker declared the proposed amendment would put these millions of dollars in intangibles that are escaping taxation upon the duplicate and thereby lessen the burden on real estate and tangibles and whose property cannot escape taxation.

It was further pointed out that the proposed taxation amendment will largely abolish the infamy of tax dodging in Ohio and place upon the duplicate approximately three billion dollars of deposits in financial institutions, practically all of which now escape taxation. It will make it possible to lessen the burdens on farm property and other real estate and on the homes of almost over seven million Ohio citizens. It will increase deposits in banks and building and loan associations millions of dollars yearly that heretofore have been squandered in worthless stocks and securities, which are offered as tax-free. As a result financial institutions will have additional capital with which to finance public enterprises. It will check the alarming drift of money out of every Ohio community heretofore invested in non-taxable securities.

The speaker declared the proposed

Constitutional Tax amendment is in no way related to amendments voted upon periodically since 1889. The amendment was drafted by the representatives of forty financial, agricultural educational and civic organizations. It was drafted by men from all walks of life who have given years of study to the taxation problem of Ohio. The speaker declared that for the first time in the history of proposed tax measures the farm leaders of Ohio were agreed upon and were supporting the amendments.

BIG BASEBALL
TEAMS TIE IN
WORLD SERIES

Pittsburgh, Oct. 8, (UP).—The rock of Gibraltar cracked and Pittsburgh took the second game of the 1925 world series, 3 to 2, in a contest that out-thrilled Wednesday's contest six to one.

And, while Washington's stone wall defense was cracking, the Pittsburgh defense, the poorest in the National league, arose to the heights of steadiness in the pinches and turned back the frequent and wicked attacks of the American leaguers.

With Victor Aldridge pitching with great care, skill and deliberation, and displaying marvelous power and courage in the pinches, the Pirates, National League champions, evened the world series before another huge crowd of excited fans at Forbes field Thursday afternoon and they now are in just as good a position as the Washington Senators, standing an equal chance with the American Leaguers of becoming champions of the world.

Home runs by Glenn Wright and Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler—Cuyler's with a runner on base, as the result of an error by the veteran shortstop, Roger Peckinpaugh — enabled the Pirates all their tallies and enabled them to defeat the capable old spitball pitcher, Stanley Coveleski.

The game was a bitterly contested struggle every inch of the way, and each club now has one game to its credit in the World series.

A Daring Departure in 1921

.. today, the nation's standard
for small home heating

"BEAUTIFUL, yes, but will it work?" Many questions, like this one, greeted the Heatrola in 1921. It was so different in appearance and operation from anything known before.

But Heatrola "worked!" From the day of the first installation, its success was assured. For Heatrola, handsome as a fine mahogany cabinet, and as easy to keep clean, does the work of a basement furnace! It keeps every room in the house, upstairs and down, cozy and snug in coldest weather. And requires no more fuel than any stove requires.

Tens of thousands of homes enjoyed Heatrola's furnace comfort last Winter—many thousands more will own Heatrolas before snow flies. Right here in this community, the homes of many of your neighbors are kept warm by this modern heating method. Let us show you these Heatrolas, and tell you how easily you can own one, too. CERTIFICATES AND BADGES PRESENTED TO YOUNG MEN

John And Mark Haswell Are Recognized Members of Life Saving Corps—Interesting Story of Work of American Red Cross In Assisting Veterans of All The Wars To Secure What Is Due Them.

A joint meeting of the executive committee of Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross, and the Junior Red Cross committee was held Wednesday evening, October 7, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, with John and Mark Haswell, as honor guests.

The occasion was the presentation of certificates, badges and insignia to the young men, who in September passed the tests under Captain Melville D. Carr, and are now recognized members of the Red Cross Life Saving corps. It was also made the occasion to feel the pulse of the public as to the continuance of the work of the Red Cross, and so spontaneous was the response from the heads of the different organizations present that the chapter was made to feel its obligations are yet unfulfilled.

Miss Anna Florence, Chapter chairman, presided, and J. M. Lynch, Junior Red Cross chairman made the presentation speech. Miss Agnes Butch, secretary, Home Service, gave a partial review of the work and cited several cases of striking heart interest. One was that of a man who had been drafted into the service with a broken right arm and kept in the service for nearly six months. His arm was broken and reset three different times, finally operated on and bone and muscle removed. He was then discharged. Some difficulty was experienced in connecting up his case, but a claim was finally allowed. This was only one of the many cases which came to the attention of the chapter. The chapter has taken care of a few civilian cases, mostly in the rural districts. Those in the city were responded to. In fact, it has tried to give attention to every case presented and found a way to alleviate distress.

In part, Miss Butch said: "Our one great problem, aside from the steady performance of duty, is to make people understand what the Red Cross is and why it is still going on. "We have but to point to its work in disaster relief, to its efficiency in the stress of emergency. As a local agency, it has bravely faced the many duties which challenge its attention. There is only one paid office and that is the secretary, Home Service. She is bounded on the north, south, east and west by a careful and scrupulous chairman and an equally careful, scrupulous treasurer, one to whom one hundred cents means one dollar, and no funds are wasted. What a well organized chapter does in a single typical day would astonish the casual outsider. Letters to answer, cases to be investigated—not only World war, but Spanish-American war. The Veterans' bureau or a secretary in another state or county asks help in locating a man, either for hospitalization or adjustment of compensation, a parent wants to file a claim for dependency, an order comes for a disabled soldier to appear for examination, veterans come in to have their problems solved, telephone calls and so on with a heart interest in every story.

"There is another phase of the work and that is the Junior Red Cross and Production. Mr. Lynch is chairman of the Junior Red Cross and has promised 150 Thanksgiving menu cards to the government hospital in Chillicothe. Mr. Ebert is chairman of Production work and thru him 15 Christmas bags were sent to soldiers serving in foreign ports.

"Filing burial claims has also become a part of the work. The Veterans' bureau now pays $100 for the burial of soldiers of the Civil war and the World war. This relieves the county commissioners of this responsibility.

"In the month of June, this year, back compensations came into the county, amounting to $1,008. In September, back compensations amounted to $1,492. This does not include monthly awards. The total amount for these two months is $2,500. Can you point to any investment of one dollar that would bring you interest of 25 per cent? Money coming into the county is practically spent in the community in which the men live. Some have bought homes, and this means they are endeavoring to save. It means taxes, insurance, etc.

"There has never been a time since our troops started homeward after the Armistice, seven years ago, when the Red Cross was so badly needed. Visualize six hundred men, who seven short years ago were the boys of yesterday. They were the flower of young manhood, full of the vim and vigor of youth, as are the boys of today. Now where are they? Mental wrecks. This is the picture the Chillicothe hospital presents today, and it is only one of seventeen set apart by the government for such patients.

"The ninth annual roll call will be put on in November. Its success is in your hands. It is the opportunity of the public to, in part, repay the sacrifices made by our boys. Will you grasp it?"

AMUSEMENTS

"Are Parents People?" seems to be a superfluous question when we meet Mr. and Mrs. James Hazlitt, wealthy Pasarens, whose seventeen year old daughter, Lita, is a pupil of Miss Barton's boarding school in another suburb of Los Angeles. If they were not people as well as parents—people human to an extreme in their petty differences and quarrels, neither of them would have admitted their inexplorable incompatibility. Certainly, the fact that they let their contradictoryness get on each other's nerves is proof positive that they are people as well as parents.

To cut a long story short, the Hazlitts have decided to separate and summon Lita to decide whether she is going to Paris with her father or to Reno with the mother. Lita decides to make herself the bone of contention by refusing to take sides, so she announces "I'm going back to school and stay there! I shall never choose between you."

Several months later we find the girl still at Miss Barton's school. For a roommate she has a lovely little blonde, who has correspondence and a crush on Maurice Mansfield, movie star. One of Miss Wilton's "mash" notes along with photos of the "sheik" are found in Lita's bureau. A note home to her parents is the result. The mother summons the husband and explains the whole affair. He is secretly glad she has called him, for, to tell the truth, they are both still deeply in love with each other, but the minute they get together, they fall to quarreling.

Lita is sent home to face the music. In her supposed infatuation for the actor she sees the "mutual worry" prescribed by young Dr. Dacer, whom she has met while away at school, as a sure cure for her parents. She lets them worry about her for a while, and then brings about their reconciliation when she disappears and spends the night in the waiting room of the doctor's office awaiting Dacer's arrival. Some great laugh scenes follow.

"Are Parents People?" which is the feature at the Met theater, is a Paramount picture, directed by Malcolm St. Clair from Frances Agnew's adaptation of the Saturday Evening Post serial by that name by Alice Duer Miller. Adolphe Menjou is the father Betty Bronson ("Peter Pan"), as the daughter, and Florence Vidor, as the mother, are featured. Lawrence Gray a new "find," heads the supporting cast, which also includes Andre de Beranger, Emily Fitzroy, Mary Beth, Milford, in the role of Aurelia Wilton, Lita's roommate, and William Courtwright.

Here's your first chance to see Betty in a story other than a fairy tale and then, too, you've been waiting to see what her first leading man would look like.

"Are Parents People?" is one of the most pleasing pictures that has reached Circleville in months.

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity

Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milch cows to provide

- (1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
- (2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
- (3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.

This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.

Such a plan pays best with a De Laval Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier to operate and clean than any other.

Flower Frocks Latest Fad for Young Girls

Not content with flower-figured chiffons, young misses are wearing dance frocks which represent certain flowers in shape and coloring.

The morning glory dance frock is perhaps one of the prettiest ballroom frocks of the season. It combines two of the most popular colors, soft blue and purple. The body portion of the frock is made of blue chiffon in long, unbelted lines to a point above the knees where circular insets of purple chiffon give a wide fluffy hem effect. Eight insets of purple are used to give the effect of the morning glory blossom. The neckline of the frock is rounded and the frock is sleeveless. On one shoulder a spray of morning glories in blue and purple tints acts as a corsage.

The rose frock is very popular with young girls and a pastel shade of rose chiffon or georgette is used. The bodice of this frock is made in slender lines to the hips where a flat band of roses forms a hip-girdle. Five layers of petaled ruffles make the skirt portion. The top ruffle is not especially full and each succeeding ruffle becomes fuller to give the effect of a blossoming rose.

Many other frocks denoting flowers mingle with the beaded and figured chiffons of the ballroom. One of the most unusual is the chrysanthemum frock designed of yellow georgette. Its skirt portion which begins below the hip line is made of five layers of pleated tabs of half-inch width. The shoulder corsage which is worn in the rear, is one large chrysanthemum made of pleated tabs of georgette. One of the newest places to wear the corsage, by the way, is at the rear of one's shoulder.

Navy Blue to Be of Importance in Modes

Fashion once more has hoisted the blue pennant to the masthead and sailed serenely into the mode with this color, the old-time favorite of years' standing which for several seasons has been somewhat neglected and overlooked.

In the early part of the season it seemed as though there was to be no place for navy blue, but recent fashion openings which launched the modes for autumn confirmed rumors that for some time have been in the air to the effect that navy blue was to be of decided importance in the future modes.

One of the most famous couturiers of Paris has introduced a charming color combination in the use of shades of rose with navy. Frequently the touch of color is provided by a clever and effective use of velvet ribbon. Green, yellow and bright blue are also placed with navy, and this use of velvet ribbon in bright shades is an outstanding phase of the latest modes.

The frock of navy chiffon or georgette with soft frills of cream lace has already achieved a marked success and is shown in many variations. Fashioned of navy crepe roma, one has two scarf ends finished with wide bands of cream-color lace, which also appears in the form of deep cuffs on the sleeves. Buttons fastening it in back give a novel touch in these days when everything slips over the head.

To wear with this is a cape coat also of navy crepe roma, with bands of hand fagoting for decoration.

Junior Styles

Flannel, and the very newest material known as balbriggan, will make many of the "little girls' dresses this autumn. Serge will as usual be popular. Serge and flannel skirts mounted on slip waists and with inverted kick plaits at the front and sides will form part of a favorite style. With these will be worn flannel middles with colored braid on the collar and a little embroidered strap at the point of the V-neck through which the tie may be slipped.

DOCTOR OLD TREE
Representative Martin L. Davey, of Ohio, who is a tree expert, has been performing a labor of love during the last week. He has been at Fredericksburg, Va., "doctoring" the last surviving one of thirteen horse chestnut trees which George Washington planted there to represent the thirteen original colonies. The tree has been slowly dying because of its great age and the inroads of the chestnut blight. It is situated on the property that formerly was the home of Betty Washington Lewis, sister of George Washington. It is viewed by many thousands of tourists annually. When Mr. Davey learned of the condition of the historic old tree, he gladly volunteered to take over the work of ministering to its ill at his own expense. It is estimated that the restoration of the tree will cost him about $400 out of his own pocket.

"Orange House" for New York
Evans Hubbard, secretary of the Netherlands-America foundation, made a short visit to Holland recently to discuss the plans of the foundation of a "house of Orange" in New York. The foundation intends to have a big house on Fifth avenue which ultimately will become the seat of the foundation, the Dutch consulate, the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce, an exhibition hall for Dutch produce, a booking office for travelers, a reading room and so on. An old Dutch facade will be constructed. It is intended to inaugurate the "house of Orange" in 1926 on the occasion of the 300th anniversary of the foundation of New Amsterdam.

The Spirit of '76—With Improvements
A New York East Sider met a friend on Third avenue and told him he had quit the buttonhole making trade.
"I'm in the art business now," he said, proudly—"such a fine business, too! Lots of money in it!"
"What do you mean—art business?" demanded his friend.
"Well," explained the East Sider, "I go by auction sales, and I buy pictures cheap; then I sell 'em high. Yesterday I bought a picture for twenty-five dollars and today I sold it for fifty."
"What was the subject?"
"It wasn't no subject at all," said the art collector—"it was a picture."
"Sure, I know," said the other. "But every picture has got to be a subject or it ain't a regular picture, you understand. Was this here picture a marine, or a landscape, or a still life, or a portrait—or what? What did it represent?"
"How should I know?" said the puzzled ex-buttonholer. "To me a picture is a picture. This here picture now didn't have no name. It was a picture of three fellers and one flag. One feller had a fife and one feller had a drum and one feller had a head-ache!"

Rocks Centuries Old
On the site where Trinity church, New York city, now stands, great glaciers were grinding their paths, leaving their traces on granite and other ancient stones 40,000 years ago. Evidence to support this conclusion has been unearthed by engineers who have just completed the task of underpinning the foundation of the church to prevent injury to the edifice from the rumbling subways to the east and west of the plot.
During the digging, according to engineers, ice-worn stones, deposited perhaps during the Second Glacial period, or about 40,000 years ago, were found. The specimens were of granite, traprock and serpentine and were recovered just above the hardpan.—Detroit News

LOANS up to $500

A customer of ours tells us he once got a loan from his father, without interest, that proved to be the most costly loan he ever had. The father, proud of his role as banker, broadcasted the transaction. The whole relationship knew about it, and soon it was a topic of neighborhood gossip. Then the son had a run of bad luck—had sickness, lost his job and couldn't meet his bills. The neighbors taunted him as a failure. His own brother called him a deadbeat and a crook. Father and son finally had a quarrel that ended in court. The price of the loan that cost no interest was a family split-up.

Heat with Distinction

At last it is proved that a home heater can be good looking—ornamental, if you will—as well as a practical heat-producing utility.

The Mueller Furnacette marks the greatest advance in home heating equipment since the invention of the heating stove. It is the joint creation of master furniture designers and skilled heating engineers. There is distinction in every line of its well-balanced, walnut-grained, vitreous enamel cabinet.

And as for heat—never was there an above-floor heater of any kind that could compare with the Furnacette in heating efficiency! It heats the whole house by continuously re-circulating warm, moist air thru all the rooms. It provides more comfortable, more uniform heat than two or three stoves combined, yet uses no more fuel than an ordinary heating stove.

FITZPATRICK PRINTERY NOW ON EAST MAIN

Splendid Plant is Result of Many Years Painsstaking Effort and Toil.

Seven years ago The Fitzpatrick Printery moved into the Brown block, 114 West Main street, just across the alley from the Union-Herald. Recently the owner, G. M. Fitzpatrick, purchased the Webb block, 127 East Main street and this week finished moving into his new home.

We are sorry to lose a good neighbor and business man and will miss him. Printing plants usually borrow type from each other and as his place was so handy, each availed themselves of the privilege accorded the profession.

The man behind the gun in the Fitzpatrick Printery is a hustler. He started out in a small way two dozen years ago in a small room, 30 by 50, in the old Albaugh building on East Franklin street. Later he moved his print shop to East Main street to the Schleyer building. By strict attention to business he has built up a nice job printing business.

Outside of business he has taken a great interest in public affairs. He has been elected and served as an infirmity director and has twice been elected mayor and is up before the people again this fall for the same honor.

The new location is ideal and will give the establishment a chance to branch out. The storeroom is 29 by 70 feet and the press room is 29 by 50 feet and all is well lighted. The plant has four job presses and one Humana automatic feeder.

In the management of the business the head of the establishment is assisted by his son-in-law, Paul D. Helwagen. Miss Ruth Reichelderfer has charge of the storeroom; Fred McGath has charge of the composing room. Elliott Mason, in the press room is ably assisted by Misses Margaret and Edith Ryan.

CHRISTIANS BLOCK EDUCATIONAL WORK

JAPANESE EXCLUSION ACT A BLOW TO MISSIONARIES

Federal Prohibition Commissioner Porterfield Declared That the Great Danger To Prohibition Is Not With the Little Insignificant Fellow Who Brews Small Quantities, But With the Rich Man Who Pays the High Prices To Get Liquor In Defiance of Law.

Inconsistency on the part of Christians of the United States was branded as the greatest obstacle confronting Christian leaders in the work of world wide education by Robert Doan, who addressed the 37th annual convention of the Franklin County Women's Christian Temperance Union in Indianola Presbyterian church Thursday night.

"If our hopes of a temperate world are realized the love of Christ must be lived in our own land," he declared. Mr. Doan told of his observations in Japan, China, Europe and South America. He stated that American missionaries typify the Christian life, but the other Americans there offset the good example by their many un-Christian acts.

He cited the Japanese exclusion act as a serious blow to the principles of Christ as expounded by the missionaries and declared that a treaty could have been made which would have been as effective as the law and would not have hindered the work there.

E. L. Porterfield, federal prohibition commissioner, declared at Thursday night's banquet that the great danger to prohibition is not with the little insignificant fellow who brews small quantities, but with the rich man who pays his big prices to get liquor in defiance of the law.

Rev. E. S. Matheny stated that the whole world is watching the United States, and that our influence is world wide.

Congressman John C. Speaks told the gathering that the next congress is safely dry.

Mrs. John Wright emphasized the need for constant work in keeping repaired the road that ultimately will lead to world-wide prohibition.

In the opening address Thursday morning, Mrs. Summer Cottingham, president, urged that a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union be in court every time a bootleg case is heard. She declared the bootleg forces have their representatives there, and that those interested in law enforcement should be there likewise.

The Grove City branch of the young people's organization had the largest delegation in attendance Thursday night.

Mrs. Cottingham was reelected Friday to a fourth term as president of the county organization, which has 1900 members. Mrs. E. R. Lunn also will be reelected treasurer.

Achievements of the year will be told by workers at the morning's session which begins at 9 o'clock. This will be followed by election of officers for the coming year.

Americanization will come up for discussion Friday afternoon following the devotional session at 1:30 o'clock to be led by Mrs. F. G. Johnson. Miss Theresa Lentz will make an address.

LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. William Barnes Died of Heart Disease at Home on Washington Street.

Harriet Anna Barnes died at her home, 818 South Pickaway street, Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Mrs. Barnes had been ill a year of valvular heart disease. She was born in New Lexington, June 18, 1854 and was a daughter of Calvin and Nancy Ann Wilson Wright.

She was married in New Lexington to William M. Barnes May 8, 1872. Her husband survives. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city.

Five sons and one daughter survive.

Their mother. They are Calvin A. Barnes, of Ft. Wayne, Indiana; Tull M. Barnes, Charles M. Barnes and Rom Barnes, of this city; Willie W. Barnes, of Terre Haute, Indiana and Mrs. Fannie M. Furgason, of Columbus.

Of her immediate family one brother is living, Joseph Wright, of Columbus.

The funeral services will be held at her late home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. E. K. Johnson will officiate. Interment in Forest cemetery.

MRS. CALDWELL RUN DOWN BY AUTOMOBILE

Former Resident of This City in Serious Condition in Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Caldwell, of 1477 East Long street, Columbus, wife of James Caldwell, secretary of the Brunson Building & Loan Co., is in a serious condition at White Cross hospital Columbus, suffering from injuries sustained Wednesday afternoon, when she was struck by an automobile while crossing High street near West First avenue. She is suffering from a fractured skull and internal injuries.

The machine which struck Mrs. Caldwell was driven by Mrs. J. L. Seeburger, whose husband is a member of the company now playing at the Lyceum theater. In attempting to cross the street, Mrs. Caldwell is said to have stepped into the path of the machine. Her injuries were first attended at a nearby drug store and she was then removed to the hospital.

CHILLCOTHE THEATER CASE IS SUBMITTED

Ohio Supreme Court to Say if Play Houses May be Open on Sunday.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 8, (UP) A motion to dismiss a petition in error in the case of Earl Myers against the State of Ohio was heard before the supreme court.

Myers, manager of the Majestic theater had been convicted of violating the state law against operating a theater on Sunday. He appealed the case and the court of appeals upheld the decision of the lower court.

Myers then filed a petition in error against the court of appeals of Ross county with the clerk of the supreme court.

Walter W. Boulger, Myers' attorney, claimed that the decision of the court of appeals did not include all the evidence submitted.

John P. Phillips, attorney for the State said the law specifically specified the closing of theaters on Sunday claimed to show where the decision of the lower courts had included all the evidence submitted and cited the statutes that apply to the case.

Mrs. Louis Hohenstine gave a family dinner at six o'clock, Thursday, October 8, in honor of Mr. Hohenstine's sixty-sixth birthday anniversary.

A delightful birthday dinner was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodward, of East Ringgold who reside on Dr. Bales' beautiful flower farm, in honor of Frank Woodward's 39th birthday anniversary. Everybody came with well filled baskets and at the noon hour a bountiful dinner was served which consisted of everything good. Because of the rain the dinner was served in the large packing shed. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodward and daughters, Evelyn, Marie and Maxine, and sons, Paul and Junior Mr. and Mrs. Alva Davis and daughters, Drussie and Mildred and sons, Eugene and Lawrence, all of Circleville; Mr. John Woodward, of Cedar Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Woodward and daughter Gladys and sons, Gerald and Fred, of East Ringgold. All left at a late hour wishing him many more happy birthday anniversaries to come.

But It's Long Swim for Losers. Americans, who are winning heavily in Deauville, will have the means of getting home Philadelphia Record.

RUM RUNNERS IN SPEED BOAT ARE CAPTURED

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 8, (UP)—Two rum runners captured in their speed boat which contained $20,000 worth of liquor on Lake Erie, off Huron, Ohio, shortly before dawn, were brought to Cleveland for arraignment before federal officials today. The men, Orville McCormick, Pelee Island, Ontario, and Dewey Wadsworth, Port Clinton, Ohio, gave battle with revolvers until they were seized.

In their speed boat, "Ranger," they tried to run a blockade established between Vermillion and Sandusky. The coast guard cruisers blocked the path, captured the men and confiscated the cargo of 680 cases of assorted liquors.

GASOLINE TAXES.

Gasoline taxes collected by the several states during the first half of this year totaled $60,108,734 of which $55,214,240 is applicable to road work. California collects the largest amount $7,514,667 on a 2 cent tax; Pennsylvania is second with $4,657,752 on a 2 cent tax; Michigan is third with $3,365,500 on a 2 cent tax; and Florida is fourth with $2,731,387 on a 5 cent tax. Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York are the only states that do not collect a gas tax.

UNIVERSITY MAKES STUDY OF MONKEYS

Scientists to Figure Just How Much These Animals Resemble Humans.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 8, (UP) Just how close a monkey really does resemble a man, is going to be determined by Johns Hopkins university scientists, assisted by the Carnegie institute.

Twenty monkeys, direct from the Himalaya mountains of Asia, will arrive here and will be placed in a miniature jungle at the university.

There Dr. Carl G. Hartman, formerly of the University of Texas, and Dr. George L. Streeter will become guardians of the animals and minister to their wants, keeping them under conditions as nearly resembling the jungle as college life will permit.

The monkeys will constitute several families—with papa and mamma monkey and all the little monkeys.

Each birth in the colony will be recorded, each baby will have its "baby book," just like human children, in which will be recorded such bits of information, as when baby first walks, how it develops and how the mother acts with regard to it.

There will be records also of the deaths in the colony, the actions of the monkeys when one of their number is taken and examination will be made to determine causes of death to see if there is any resemblance between the maladies of animals and those of human beings.

From this data, which will be gathered over a period of years, scientists will draw new conclusions as to just where the monkey sits in the human family tree—if at all.

CITIES STILL GAIN

Survey Shows Marked Decrease In the Farm Population.

Based on a survey of 25,000 representative farms, the Department of Agriculture estimates that the farm population decreased approximately 182,000 in 1924. If this impresses that the cities are still potent to draw tillers of the soil from the occupation in which they have hitherto been engaged, there is another phase in that the loss to the farms is appreciably less than in 1922, when the cities made a net gain of 460,000 at the expense of agriculture. While there is and for long has been a movement from the country to urban surroundings it is not the only direction in which there is migration. According to the estimate, 2,075,000 moved from farms to cities, towns and villages last year while 1,396,000 took the opposite course. From this it may be assumed reasonably that many who had had experience with urban life sought a change, either because they had found residence in congested communities undesirable, or it was hoped to better conditions by going to the farms.

Considering the state of agriculture it is rather remarkable that the preponderance in favor of the city is so slight. Depression in any line of industry tends to drive workers to other lines which seem to offer greater promise. The drawbacks incident to a change may not be as obvious as what appear to be advantages. That so many took part in the return movement may indicate that no small number who had previously moved cityward found the net benefits less than hoped for. While the possible income in the city may have seemed alluring, the expenses have been found to be in no less proportion. Hence the retrograde movement in such volume. —Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Skeletons Go Back to Prehistoric Age

Two prehistoric skeletons, more than 80 feet in length, recently were uncovered near Hoquiam, Wash., by workmen in a railroad cut, according to an Associated Press dispatch from that place. Rev. J. Herbert Geoghegan, who examined the find, pronounced the bones those of ichthyosaurs.

The skeletons were imbedded in from 40 to 60 feet of limestone deposit and were partly petrified. The railroad excavation cut through the animals' ribs, which could be seen extending for a distance of several feet in parallel lines.

No skull was found, but a long tearing tooth discovered among the debris was taken as indicating that the animals were carnivorous. The ribs vary from three to twelve inches in thickness, while a portion of shoulder blade is four feet long and five inches thick. Knee joints and other bones discovered vary in size from several feet to only a few inches in circumference.

"The character of the rock indicates that it was once sea or river bottom, which through a fault has been overturned," said Rev. Mr. Geoghegan. "The layers of strata have been upended, leaving the animals lying in an unnatural position."

"The upheaval which placed the bones on the top of a hill probably took place at the time the Cascade range was formed."

"The animal was a vertebrate and probably stood 40 feet high, counting the long expanse of neck found. The classification of the bones could be determined more exactly if we could locate the skull of one of the beasts."

"This entire country appears to have been tropical or subtropical in character and the absence of rocks and gravel proves that the glacier which covered the northern part of the continent at one time never touched this section."

"From the character of the soil, either river or ocean bottom, I am inclined to believe the animals were ichthyosaurs, or maritime reptiles, rather than the dinosaur, land reptile or pterodactyl, flying reptile."

They Never Grow Up

"In spite of the fact that we place note pads on the wall at the side of every room telephone, nearly all our guests insist on writing their memoranda of telephone numbers on the wall," declared the manager of a downtown bachelor hotel. "It's never a malicious idea with them. It's just an outcropping of the strongest urge of childhood—to scribble on a clean space of wall. Somehow, men don't seem to be able to forget this fascination."

Fall of Holy Sepulchre Feared

British officials in Palestine express apprehensions lest the Holy sepulchre, shown above, cave in from the gradual weakening of the walls due to age and to the innumerable offerings of pilgrims. The church is legally possessed by the local authorities of almost all of the branches of the Christian church—Abyssinians, Armenians, Copts, Greeks, Latins, etc. This multiple control makes it extremely difficult for the British authorities to persuade the owners to undertake and carry through any effective repair.

EDISON TONAL
DELIGHTFUL

E. Sensenbrenner Secured
for Musical.

The tonal concert at Memorial hall, Wednesday evening, October 7, was a real treat, and as the vast audience left the hall, on all sides could be heard praises of the New Edison and a deep appreciation of the artists, Mr. Glen Ellison, Scotch baritone, and Miss Alta Hill, pianist.

For this wonderful treat was made possible thru the efforts of E. Sensenbrenner, proprietor of Sensenbrenner's "Watch Shop and Edison Music Rooms." From the first number to the last, the audience was held under the magic spell of the natural voice blending with the re-incarnated, and Mr. Sensenbrenner is to be congratulated on securing for the music lovers of Circleville so rare a treat.

The effect of two voices of the same exquisite quality, was indeed a new sensation. Mr. Ellison sang "Roamin' in the Gloamin'" with such beauty and expression that one could almost be persuaded that it was Harry himself. Tests were made by the artist, and it is no more than just to state that there was not the slightest difference between the re-created voice and the original. The same could be said of Miss Hill. It was only by watching the piano keys that one could be sure when she played and when she did not.

The New Edison stands on its own merits. This was demonstrated beyond question at this recital. Voice and instrument blended so harmoniously that one could not distinguish whether there was "one of me or two of me," as Mr. Ellison expressed it. Both Mr. Ellison and Miss Hill were generous in responding to encores; but at that, the concert was all too short.

Effective decorations of dahlias and fern added to the attractiveness of the occasion.

The program was:
(a) Sing Us a Song of Bonnie Scotland—Payne

(b) Roamin' In The Gloamin'—Lauder

A sprightly tune, amusing words and pretty sentiment. Mr. Ellison with Edison Records of his own voice. Country Gardens—Grainger

Dog Spells Own Name

While dogs have a general reputation for intelligence, there are few whose education is as far advanced as that of Chum, a terrier owned by Mrs. Young, of the Studio, Cuckfield, Sussex, England, who spells his own name, placing the letters which compose it in their order without ever making a mistake.

He fetches his mistress' shoes and gloves when she begins to take off her slippers, and then puts the slippers away, and brings to those requiring them cigarettes, matches, crumb brush and tray, books, sticks and letters.

"He learns a lot simply from his own observation, as we have not time to teach him properly," said his owner to a Daily Mail reporter.

CONSTITUTION
DISCUSSION

Hon. D. Price Evans, of Jackson, Made Enlightening
Talk at Rotary.

Speaking Thursday noon before the Rotary club at The Boggs, Honorable D. Price Evans, of Jackson, discussed the proposed Constitutional Tax and Debt Limitation amendments which are to be voted upon this fall.

According to the speaker, the Constitutional Tax amendment is simply a measure that will make the present Uniform Rule elastic enough to cover intangibles which are now escaping taxation. The Debt Limitation amendment simply writes into the constitution the pay-as-you-go plan which is already in the Ohio statutes.

Mr. Evans pointed out that the present Uniform Rule under which the Ohioans are taxed was written into the constitution in 1851 when Ohio was purely an agricultural state. He said the total tax duplicate at that time was only $462,148,620, but that the total taxable wealth of the state now is $12,250,387,725. "A rule of taxation" said the speaker, "suitable for 1851 is not suited for 1925 for since 1851 Ohio has changed from an agricultural state to a beehive of industry, mining and commerce, and has created intangible wealth whose value is greater than that of the tangible wealth."

Mr. Evans explained that the proposed Constitutional Tax amendment would not weaken the Uniform Rule but strengthen it—in that it made it elastic enough to cover intangible wealth thereby decreasing the burden upon homes, farms and other tangible property.

In substantiation of the contention that intangibles are now escaping taxation the speaker said that in Ohio in 1924 we had 1,060,157 personal property tax returns and the total personal property returned for taxation was only $183,234,361, while the financial institutions of Ohio had $3,514,334,133.

The speaker pointed out that in Cuyahoga county last year 49,211 persons made personal property tax returns, listing only $9,877,420 in monies while the financial institutions in Cuyahoga county had $1,081,610,684.

In Hamilton county, with the second largest city in Ohio 57,491 personal tax returns were made for a grand total of both tangible and intangible personal property of $66,969,900 while financial institutions in Hamilton county had $357,144,555.

To show that the same condition exists in the rural counties the speaker declared that in Defiance county 5,051 personal tax returns were made last year, listing monies to the extent of $1,032,480, while financial institutions had $11,427,510.

Bringing the tax lesson closer home Mr. Evans said: "The value of all monies in possession or subject of draft returned for taxation last year by 5,292 personal property tax returns in Pickaway county, amounted to $1,491,625, while the money in all of the financial institutions in Pickaway county totaled $5,658,888. In this county motor and other vehicles in the amount of $949,090 were returned for taxation and the total value of all credits after deducting the bona fide debts amounted to $2,374,185 and the grand total for taxation for all personal property, both tangible and intangible was $9,518,260 but the financial institutions of this county had $5,658,888.

The speaker declared the proposed amendment would put these millions of dollars in intangibles that are escaping taxation upon the duplicate and thereby lessen the burden on real estate and tangibles and whose property cannot escape taxation.

It was further pointed out that the proposed taxation amendment will largely abolish the infamy of tax dodging in Ohio and place upon the duplicate approximately three billion dollars of deposits in financial institutions, practically all of which now escape taxation. It will make it possible to lessen the burdens on farm property and other real estate and on the homes of almost over seven million Ohio citizens. It will increase deposits in banks and building and loan associations millions of dollars yearly that heretofore have been squandered in worthless stocks and securities, which are offered as tax-free. As a result financial institutions will have additional capital with which to finance public enterprises. It will check the alarming drift of money out of every Ohio community heretofore invested in non-taxable securities.

The speaker declared the proposed

Constitutional Tax amendment is in no way related to amendments voted upon periodically since 1889. The amendment was drafted by the representatives of forty financial, agricultural educational and civic organizations. It was drafted by men from all walks of life who have given years of study to the taxation problem of Ohio. The speaker declared that for the first time in the history of proposed tax measures the farm leaders of Ohio were agreed upon and were supporting the amendments.

BIG BASEBALL
TEAMS TIE IN
WORLD SERIES

Pittsburgh, Oct. 8, (UP).—The rock of Gibraltar cracked and Pittsburgh took the second game of the 1925 world series, 3 to 2, in a contest that out-thrilled Wednesday's contest six to one.

And, while Washington's stone wall defense was cracking, the Pittsburgh defense, the poorest in the National league, arose to the heights of steadiness in the pinches and turned back the frequent and wicked attacks of the American leaguers.

With Victor Aldridge pitching with great care, skill and deliberation, and displaying marvelous power and courage in the pinches, the Pirates, National League champions, evened the world series before another huge crowd of excited fans at Forbes field Thursday afternoon and they now are in just as good a position as the Washington Senators, standing an equal chance with the American Leaguers of becoming champions of the world.

Home runs by Glenn Wright and Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler—Cuyler's with a runner on base, as the result of an error by the veteran shortstop, Roger Peckinpaugh—gave the Pirates all their tallies and enabled them to defeat the capable old spitball pitcher, Stanley Coveleski.

The game was a bitterly contested struggle every inch of the way, and each club now has one game to its credit in the World series.

A Daring Departure in 1921

..today, the nation's standard
for small home heating

"BEAUTIFUL, yes, but will it work?" Many questions, like this one, greeted the Heatrola in 1921. It was so different in appearance and operation from anything known before.

But Heatrola "worked!" From the day of the first installation, its success was assured. For Heatrola, handsome as a fine mahogany cabinet, and as easy to keep clean, does the work of a basement furnace! It keeps every room in the house, upstairs and down, cozy and snug in coldest weather. And requires no more fuel than any stove requires.

Tens of thousands of homes enjoyed Heatrola's furnace comfort last Winter—many thousands more will own Heatrolas before snow flies. Right here in this community, the homes of many of your neighbors are kept warm by this modern heating method. Let us show you these Heatrolas, and tell you how easily you can own one, too. CERTIFICATES AND BADGES PRESENTED TO YOUNG MEN

John And Mark Haswell Are Recognized Members of Life Saving Corps—Interesting Story of Work of American Red Cross In Assisting Veterans of All The Wars To Secure What Is Due Them.

A joint meeting of the executive committee of Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross, and the Junior Red Cross committee was held Wednesday evening, October 7, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, with John and Mark Haswell, as honor guests.

The occasion was the presentation of certificates, badges and insignia to the young men, who in September passed the tests under Captain Melville D. Carr, and are now recognized members of the Red Cross Life Saving corps. It was also made the occasion to feel the pulse of the public as to the continuance of the work of the Red Cross, and so spontaneous was the response from the heads of the different organizations present that the chapter was made to feel its obligations are yet unfulfilled.

Miss Anna Florence, Chapter chairman, presided, and J. M. Lynch, Junior Red Cross chairman made the presentation speech. Miss Agnes Butch, secretary, Home Service, gave a partial review of the work and cited several cases of striking heart interest. One was that of a man who had been drafted into the service with a broken right arm and kept in the service for nearly six months. His arm was broken and reset three different times, finally operated on and bone and muscle removed. He was then discharged. Some difficulty was experienced in connecting up his case, but a claim was finally allowed. This was only one of the many cases which came to the attention of the chapter. The chapter has taken care of a few civilian cases, mostly in the rural districts. Those in the city were responded to. In fact, it has tried to give attention to every case presented and found a way to alleviate distress.

In part, Miss Butch said: "Our one great problem, aside from the steady performance of duty, is to make people understand what the Red Cross is and why it is still going on. "We have but to point to its work in disaster relief, to its efficiency in the stress of emergency. As a local agency, it has bravely faced the many duties which challenge its attention. There is only one paid office and that is the secretary, Home Service. She is bounded on the north, south, east and west by a careful and scrupulous chairman and an equally careful, scrupulous treasurer, one to whom one hundred cents means one dollar, and no funds are wasted. What a well organized chapter does in a single typical day would astonish the casual outsider. Letters to answer, cases to be investigated—not only World war, but Spanish-American war. The Veterans' bureau or a secretary in another state or county asks help in locating a man, either for hospitalization or adjustment of compensation, a parent wants to file a claim for dependency, an order comes for a disabled soldier to appear for examination, veterans come in to have their problems solved, telephone calls and so on with a heart interest in every story.

"There is another phase of the work and that is the Junior Red Cross and Production. Mr. Lynch is chairman of the Junior Red Cross and has promised 150 Thanksgiving menu cards to the government hospital in Chillicothe. Mr. Ebert is chairman of Production work and thru him 15 Christmas bags were sent to soldiers serving in foreign ports.

"Filing burial claims has also become a part of the work. The Veterans' bureau now pays $100 for the burial of soldiers of the Civil war and the World war. This relieves the county commissioners of this responsibility.

"In the month of June, this year, back compensations came into the county, amounting to $1,008. In September, back compensations amounted to $1,492. This does not include monthly awards. The total amount for these two months is $2,500. Can you point to any investment of one dollar that would bring you interest of 25 per cent? Money coming into the county is practically spent in the community in which the men live. Some have bought homes, and this means they are endeavoring to save. It means taxes, insurance, etc.

"There has never been a time since our troops started homeward after the Armistice, seven years ago, when the Red Cross was so badly needed. Visualize six hundred men, who seven short years ago were the boys of yesterday. They were the flower of young manhood, full of the vim and vigor of youth, as are the boys of today. Now where are they? Mental wrecks. This is the picture the Chillicothe hospital presents today, and it is only one of seventeen set apart by the government for such patients.

"The ninth annual roll call will be put on in November. Its success is in your hands. It is the opportunity of the public to, in part, repay the sacrifices made by our boys. Will you grasp it?"

AMUSEMENTS

"Are Parents People?" seems to be a superfluous question when we meet Mr. and Mrs. James Hazlitt, wealthy Pasarens, whose seventeen year old daughter, Lita, is a pupil of Miss Barton's boarding school in another suburb of Los Angeles. If they were not people as well as parents—people human to an extreme in their petty differences and quarrels, neither of them would have admitted their inexplicable incompatibility. Certainly, the fact that they let their contradictoriness get on each other's nerves is proof positive that they are people as well as parents.

To cut a long story short, the Hazlitts have decided to separate and summon Lita to decide whether she is going to Paris with her father or to Reno with the mother. Lita decides to make herself the bone of contention by refusing to take sides, so she announces "I'm going back to school and stay there! I shall never choose between you."

Several months later we find the girl still at Miss Barton's school. For a roommate she has a lovable little blonde, who has correspondence and a crush on Maurice Mansfield, movie star. One of Miss Wilton's "mash" notes along with photos of the "sheik" are found in Lita's bureau. A note home to her parents is the result. The mother summons the husband and explains the whole affair. He is secretly glad she has called him, for, to tell the truth, they are both still deeply in love with each other, but the minute they get together, they fall to quarreling.

Lita is sent home to face the music. In her supposed infatuation for the actor she sees the "mutual worry" prescribed by young Dr. Dacer, whom she has met while away at school, as a sure cure for her parents. She lets them worry about her for a while, and then brings about their reconciliation when she disappears and spends the night in the waiting room of the doctor's office awaiting Dacer's arrival. Some great laugh scenes follow.

"Are Parents People?" which is the feature at the Met theater, is a Paramount picture, directed by Malcolm St. Clair from Frances Agnew's adaptation of the Saturday Evening Post serial by that name by Alice Duer Miller. Adolphe Menjou is the father Betty Bronson' ("Peter Pan"), as the daughter, and Florence Vidor, as the mother, are featured. Lawrence Gray a new "find," heads the supporting cast, which also includes Andre de Beranger, Emily Fitzroy, Mary Beth, Milford, in the role of Aurelia Wilton, Lita's roommate, and William Courtwright.

Here's your first chance to see Betty in a story other than a fairy tale and then, too, you've been waiting to see what her first leading man would look like.

"Are Parents People?" is one of the most pleasing pictures that has reached Circleville in months.

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity

Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milch cows to provide

- (1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
- (2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
- (3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.

This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.

Such a plan pays best with a De Laval Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier to operate and clean than any other.

Flower Frocks Latest Fad for Young Girls

Not content with flower-figured chiffons, young misses are wearing dance frocks which represent certain flowers in shape and coloring.

The morning glory dance frock is perhaps one of the prettiest ballroom frocks of the season. It combines two of the most popular colors, soft blue and purple. The body portion of the frock is made of blue chiffon in long, unbelted lines to a point above the knees where circular insets of purple chiffon give a wide fluffy hem effect. Eight insets of purple are used to give the effect of the morning glory blossom. The neckline of the frock is rounded and the frock is sleeveless. On one shoulder a spray of morning glories in blue and purple tints acts as a corsage.

The rose frock is very popular with young girls and a pastel shade of rose chiffon or georgette is used. The bodice of this frock is made in slender lines to the hips where a flat band of roses forms a hip-girdle. Five layers of petaled ruffles make the skirt portion. The top ruffle is not especially full and each succeeding ruffle becomes fuller to give the effect of a blossoming rose.

Many other frocks denoting flowers mingle with the beaded and figured chiffons of the ballroom. One of the most unusual is the chrysanthemum frock designed of yellow georgette. Its skirt portion which begins below the hip line is made of five layers of pleated tabs of half-inch width. The shoulder corsage which is worn in the rear, is one large chrysanthemum made of pleated tabs of georgette. One of the newest places to wear the corsage, by the way, is at the rear of one's shoulder.

Navy Blue to Be of Importance in Modes

Fashion once more has hoisted the blue pennant to the masthead and sailed serenely into the mode with this color, the old-time favorite of years' standing which for several seasons has been somewhat neglected and overlooked.

In the early part of the season it seemed as though there was to be no place for navy blue, but recent fashion openings which launched the modes for autumn confirmed rumors that for some time have been in the air to the effect that navy blue was to be of decided importance in the future modes.

One of the most famous couturiers of Paris has introduced a charming color combination in the use of shades of rose with navy. Frequently the touch of color is provided by a clever and effective use of velvet ribbon. Green, yellow and bright blue are also placed with navy, and this use of velvet ribbon in bright shades is an outstanding phase of the latest modes.

The frock of navy chiffon or georgette with soft frills of cream lace has already achieved a marked success and is shown in many variations. Fashioned of navy crepe roma, one has two scarf ends finished with wide bands of cream-color lace, which also appears in the form of deep cuffs on the sleeves. Buttons fastening it in back give a novel touch in these days when everything slips over the head. To wear with this is a cape coat also of navy crepe roma, with bands of hand faggotting for decoration.

Junior Styles

Flannel, and the very newest material known as balbriggan, will make many of the little girls' dresses this autumn. Serge will as usual be popular. Serge and flannel skirts mounted on slip waists and with inverted kick plaits at the front and sides will form part of a favorite style. With these will be worn flannel middles with colored braid on the collar and a little embroidered strap at the point of the V-neck through which the tie may be slipped.

The matter of an outlet for surface water at the corner of Washington and Ohio streets was referred to the committee on Department of Public Service.

The City Auditor was instructed to place all fines, license and fees collected during the months of September, October, November and December in the service fund. The City Auditor was also authorized to pay for the installing of lights on the Hargus Creek bridge over Court street.

DOCTOR OLD TREE

Representative Martin L. Davey, of Ohio, who is a tree expert, has been performing a labor of love during the last week. He has been at Fredericksburg, Va., "doctoring" the last surviving one of thirteen horse chestnut trees which George Washington planted there to represent the thirteen original colonies. The tree has been slowly dying because of its great age and the inroads of the chestnut blight. It is situated on the property that formerly was the home of Betty Washington Lewis, sister of George Washington. It is viewed by many thousands of tourists annually. When Mr. Davey learned of the condition of the historic old tree, he gladly volunteered to take over the work of ministering to its ills at his own expense. It is estimated that the restoration of the tree will cost him about $400 out of his own pocket.

"Orange House" for New York

Evans Hubbard, secretary of the Netherlands-America foundation, made a short visit to Holland recently to discuss the plans of the foundation of a "house of Orange" in New York. The foundation intends to have a big house on Fifth avenue which ultimately will become the seat of the foundation, the Dutch consulate, the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce, an exhibition hall for Dutch produce, a booking office for travelers, a reading room and so on. An old Dutch facade will be constructed. It is intended to inaugurate the "house of Orange" in 1926 on the occasion of the 300th anniversary of the foundation of New Amsterdam.

The Spirit of '76—With Improvements

A New York East Sider met a friend on Third avenue and told him he had quit the buttonhole making trade.

"I'm in the art business now," he said, proudly—"such a fine business, too! Lots of money in it!"

"What do you mean—art business?" demanded his friend.

"Well," explained the East Sider, "I go by auction sales, and I buy pictures cheap; then I sell 'em high. Yesterday I bought a picture for twenty-five dollars and today I sold it for fifty."

"What was the subject?"

"It wasn't no subject at all," said the art collector—"it was a picture."

"Sure, I know," said the other. "But every picture has got to be a subject or it ain't a regular picture, you understand. Was this here picture a marine, or a landscape, or a still life, or a portrait—or what? What did it represent?"

"How should I know?" said the puzzled ex-buttonholer. "To me a picture is a picture. This here picture now didn't have no name. It was a picture of three fellers and one flag. One feller had a fife and one feller had a drum and one feller had a head-ache!"

Rocks Centuries Old

On the site where Trinity church, New York city, now stands, great glaciers were grinding their paths, leaving their traces on granite and other ancient stones 40,000 years ago. Evidence to support this conclusion has been unearthed by engineers who have just completed the task of underpinning the foundation of the church to prevent injury to the edifice from the rumbling subways to the east and west of the plot.

During the digging, according to engineers, ice-worn stones, deposited perhaps during the Second Glacial period, or about 40,000 years ago, were found. The specimens were of granite, traprock and serpentine and were recovered just above the hardpan.—Detroit News

LOANS up to $500

A customer of ours tells us he once got a loan from his father, without interest, that proved to be the most costly loan he ever had. The father, proud of his role as banker, broadcasted the transaction. The whole relationship knew about it, and soon it was a topic of neighborhood gossip. Then the son had a run of bad luck—had sickness, lost his job and couldn't meet his bills. The neighbors taunted him as a failure. His own brother called him a deadbeat and a crook. Father and son finally had a quarrel that ended in court. The price of the loan that cost no interest was a family split-up.

To make a matter of friendship out of a business proposition is a costly mistake.

Heat with Distinction

At last it is proved that a home heater can be good looking—ornamental, if you will—as well as a practical heat-producing utility.

The Mueller Furnacette marks the greatest advance in home heating equipment since the invention of the heating stove. It is the joint creation of master furniture designers and skilled heating engineers. There is distinction in every line of its well-balanced, walnut-grained, vitreous enamel cabinet.

And as for heat—never was there an above-floor heater of any kind that could compare with the Furnacette in heating efficiency! It heats the whole house by continuously re-circulating warm, moist air thru all the rooms. It provides more comfortable, more uniform heat than two or three stoves combined, yet uses no more fuel than an ordinary heating stove.

Sold on convenient monthly payments.

Safety and Mileage

For Rough Winter Driving

OPERATORS of large truck, bus and cab fleets must have rugged, long-mileage tires if they are to make money. That is why so many of them have standardized on Firestone. Experienced race drivers, almost to a man, equip with Firestone. Car owners can have this same extra safety and economy—by using Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping, the Firestone extra process, impregnates and insulates every fiber of every cord with rubber—insures greater safety and comfort over rough winter roads—builds extra strength and flexibility into the sidewalls—an exclusive feature that adds thousands of miles to the life of a tire.

Come in—let us save you money by equipping your car with a set of these wonderful tires—prices are still low.

A Bit of Talk

The partners, Hirsch and Reiss, went to the office one morning and found that burglars had attacked the safe without being able to open it.

"What a disappointment they must have had," said Hirsch.

"Yes, but not so bad as it would have been if they had opened it," replied Reiss.

FITZPATRICK PRINTERY NOW ON EAST MAIN

Splendid Plant is Result of Many Years Painsstaking Effort and Toil.

Seven years ago The Fitzpatrick Printery moved into the Brown block, 114 West Main street, just across the alley from the Union-Herald. Recently the owner, G. M. Fitzpatrick, purchased the Webbe block, 127 East Main street and this week finished moving into his new home.

We are sorry to lose a good neighbor and business man and will miss him. Printing plants usually borrow type from each other and as his place was so handy, each availed themselves of the privilege accorded the profession.

The man behind the gun in the Fitzpatrick Printery is a hustler. He started out in a small way two dozen years ago in a small room, 30 by 50, in the old Albaugh building on East Franklin street. Later he moved his print shop to East Main street to the Schleyer building. By strict attention to business he has built up a nice job printing business.

Outside of business he has taken a great interest in public affairs. He has been elected and served as an infirmity director and has twice been elected mayor and is up before the people again this fall for the same honor.

The new location is ideal and will give the establishment a chance to branch out. The storeroom is 29 by 70 feet and the press room is 29 by 50 feet and all is well lighted. The plant has four job presses and one Humana automatic feeder.

In the management of the business the head of the establishment is assisted by his son-in-law, Paul D. Helwagen. Miss Ruth Reichelderfer has charge of the storeroom; Fred McGath has charge of the composing room. Elliott Mason, in the press room is ably assisted by Misses Margaret and Edith Ryan.

Springfield, Oct. 8.—Prosecutor O. L. McKinney and Sheriff Walter S. Lewis Friday continued their search of pharmaists records in Springfield and other southwestern Ohio cities in their effort to trace the poison which caused the death of 14 year old Esta Strome of New Carlisle. Mrs. Birdie Strome, the girl's stepmother was still held in the county jail for investigation.

Toledo, — The death of General Isaac Sherwood, oldest living ex-congressman, within the next two or three days "is inevitable," physicians who have maintained a constant vigil at the aged man's bedside said Friday.

General Sherwood, a Civil war veteran, entered congress in 1872. He was nine times representative of the Ninth Ohio district. He retired last year.

The Extravagance of Cheapness!

If one has money to waste on clothing, it may be all right to buy some of the so called "cheap" goods that are so freely advertised.

But comparatively few people can afford this form of extravagance. The man who is careful of his expenditures is not wasting money on poorly made ill-fitting clothes whose only attraction is a low first cost.

However, the shrewd and discerning buyers have contributed to our steady growth. The season's Values. Quality and dependability.
